Characteristics of the Vintage: The 2008 vintage will mark the history of Corte Quaiara with its richness and generosity. The year 2008 is characterized by a regular and uneventful vegetative growth of the vines, and by clusters of considerable size and quantity. The climate is mild for most of the year with a rather cool August, but in the last weeks of ripening, the air from Lake Garda becomes dry and warm, thus defining the character of this vintage.

Organoleptic Examination: With a clear and bright color, luminous reflections with golden streaks, it has an intense aroma of freshly baked bread crust and sun-dried field herbs.

On the palate, it is full and persuasive with hints of ripe fruit, coffee, almond.

Notes of almond and cocoa progressively blend with white and dried flowers. The classic hints of ripe fruits complete the ensemble and stamp it with the seal of a fully matured vintage.

Obtained from the first and only gentle pressing, the slow and extended refermentation in the bottle for 140 months has exalted the uniqueness of this vintage.
